Highway Crews Battle Drifts to Keep Roads Open

Traffic Is Curtailed When Winds Pile Up Snow; Cars Stranded

Mark Twain was wrong when he said everyone talks about the weather, but nobody ever does anything about it. The Antioch Township highway crew, under the leadership of Highway Commissioner Carl Barthel, has been going "on the double" ever since Sunday night, clearing the deeply drifted roads and working overtime in the endeavor to keep them open for traffic.

Old Man Weather may have gotten the jump on them a little, at times, for he can be everywhere at once, while highway crews can only be in one spot at a time, but he never stayed very far ahead for long.

In spite of the highway crew's valiant efforts, drifting snow held traffic at a standstill Tuesday morning. By Wednesday morning the main highways in Antioch and surrounding townships were open, and other roads were being opened.

Schools of the county, which were closed Tuesday and Wednesday, reopened today, and bus service to Waukegan and Chicago were resumed Wednesday evening.

Some shortages of bread and other products which depend on truck transportation were reported in Antioch, but with the clearing of main highways Wednesday evening new supplies were delivered.

It is reported that some motorists whose automobiles are snowed-in on country roads and lanes will not be able to get their cars to service stations to get gasoline on the No. 3 coupons in their ration books which expire today, Jan. 21.

A heavy snowfall which started today at 9 a. m. threatened to close the roads again, but petered out shortly after noon and a pale sunshine gave hope of a brighter outlook.

"Save Fuel for Victory" To Be Subject of New U. of I. Radio Series

A series of eight 15-minute broadcasts will be presented over station WILL, the University of Illinois broadcast station, beginning Thursday, Jan. 8, at 2:15 daily, to give the consumer the benefit of specialized knowledge in the saving of fuel for victory.

Prof. A. B. Kratz, Warren Harris, B. Konzo, and Prof. J. R. Fellows, all of the University of Illinois, will present the lectures.

Edmund F. Vos, president of the Antioch Lumber and Coal Co., urges that every user of coal for fuel listen in on the series so that all heating plants may be operated as economically as possible during the national emergency.

"Insulation Saves Fuel," "Efficient Steam and Hot Water Heat," "Efficient Warm Air Heating," "Save Fuel by Reducing Smoke," "Home Insulation," "Know Your Fuel," "You Can Save Fuel but Cannot Save 100%," are among the subjects to be discussed.

WILL operates on 580 kilocycles.

H. S. Teacher To Accept New Position

Forrest P. Cook, who has been instructor in chemistry, biology and mathematics at Antioch Township High School since Dec. 1, is leaving Jan. 29 to accept a position as city chemist and superintendent of filtration at the Anderson, Ind., water works.

Cook came to Antioch from Anderson. During his stay here he showed considerable talent as a teacher of science.

Hold Sulfa Drugs Curb Pneumonia Deaths in Illinois

Pneumonia, once rated as one of the deadliest communicable diseases, apparently took fewer Illinois lives in 1942 than in any other former year of reliable record, Dr. Roland R. Cross, Director of the State Department of Public Health, attributes this gratifying showing to prompt professional use of the sulfa drugs which are distributed without charge by the Department.

In 1933, out of about 10,000 reported cases of pneumonia, there were approximately 5,000 deaths. Last year, out of about 11,300 cases, the provisional total of deaths was less than three thousand.

DALY CHAIRMAN OF COUNTY FOR PARALYSIS DRIVE

Edward J. Hughes has been appointed State Chairman of the Tenth Annual Drive to raise money to carry on the Infantile Paralysis program throughout the United States and its possessions. The fund raising campaign officially opens the evening of January 16.

Mr. Hughes has appointed Joseph P. Daly of Waukegan to serve as Lake County chairman.

Fifty per cent of the net money collected in your county will be held by the Lake County Chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, Inc. The other fifty per cent will be turned over to the National Foundation to be used in research.

It's about time for us to unload some pet peeves—so here goes!—For instance, that phrase, "presented with," "presented," and let it go at that? Likewise, chatty gals who gossip loudly—and endlessly—on street cars, in trains, or in buses—in clear, carrying tones that can be heard to the furthest nook and cranny of the vehicle. Men do this, too, sometimes, but not so much. Likewise, orchestras and dance bands who meanly play another encore when we're stuck with a dull partner who strays on toes and we fear we cannot last the next round, though we strive to go smiling on. Likewise them same orch. & d. b's. who cut the number short when we finally get caught with a fairly decent partner. We remember lasting through three encores once, with a partner who had been eating caviar. But strong!

Deserving of considerable credit for their speedy work in clearing the village streets after the snow storms early this week were the members of the street crews, under the leadership of Street Superintendent Fred Peterson and Marshal William Thiemann.

We offer this morsel, copped from Associated Press despatches, for what it's worth—

Idaho—Square-jawed Master Sergeant George Yulias of Gowen field, a heavy bomber gunner, says it calms his nerves—

So he crochets.

He's finished a dresser scarf and is halfway through a bedspread.

"Rather pretty, eh?"

—Add signs of the times—farmers out this-a-way hauling milk and driving to town with horses and hobs—Antioch's main drag—and forlorn looking cars parked window-deep in snow drifts out along highways and by-ways—drifts reported ten feet deep out around Wilmet way (we never could figure out whether there really always a little more snow out at Wilmet, or whether the folks there were just naturally better liars—Guess it sits down pretty deep among them hills, though)—and the Antioch bus breaking a spring in Waukegan Wednesday, after bounding merrily along the rural highways, unscathed, all day.

The boss has been around lately, so I find any news in the paper, it ain't our fault—we just been sorta hanging back in the traces and taking things 'em like.

We've been thinking over this Waukegan baby kidnapping case, and have decided that maybe we're funny, but some of our sympathy goes to the woman who took the baby—and not such a heck of a lot of it to the mother who left the tiny, helpless creature in its buggy parked in lobbies and on streets, without apparently worrying about what was going to happen to it. We've seen many a baby parked like that outside stores, screaming itself purple, while by-standers gathered around—or being patted and fondled by people with colds, sniffed at by passing dogs—or bouncing around at the imminent risk of toppling out on the concrete sidewalk. Maybe we've got criminal tendencies, too, but we've been tempted to stage a kidnapping or two ourselves on occasion—if only to try to wake the mothers up to a realization of the fact that babies CAN'T take care of themselves like grownups, and shouldn't be left alone. Besides being helpless, they are, you might say, rather precious treasures. You wouldn't leave a pearl necklace or a few thousand dollars in bills lying around on the street, would you?

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Bradley and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Sour were callers at the home of Dr. and Mrs. E. J. Hays, Sunday.

Rescue Squad Holds Open House In New Quarters

Formal opening of the new quarters of the Antioch Rescue squad in the rooms on the second floor of the Chase Webb building was held Monday night with the officers of various organizations and village officials as special guests.

Opening the meeting which was called for 8 o'clock, Capt. Herman Holbek welcomed guests and gave a brief history of the local Rescue squad. Organized and ready to start service in June, 1940, the squad starting with meager equipment now has acquired equipment valued at nearly $3,600 in addition to the truck, Holbek revealed. All funds have been raised by popular subscription and benefits conducted by the squad members. Members serve without pay and all have completed courses in first aid.

Mayor George B. Bartlett commended the work of the squad in his brief talk, as did also the Rev. F. M. Flaherty, Roman Vos, civilian defense chairman, and Chief L. Van Patten of the Antioch Fire department.

The squad responded to 83 calls in 1942, many of which resulted in the saving of life. During the present month four calls have been answered.

Capt. Gately Made Honorary Member. An honored guest was Capt. Howard Gately of the Kenosha Rescue squad, who as an American Red Cross First Aid instructor, gave valuable assistance in getting the local squad organized and in instructing members in first aid practice. The local squad presented Capt. Gately with a badge and honorary membership in recognition of his services here.

Coffee and sandwiches were served. Five members of the local squad are now in military service. They are: Major L. D. Powles, Wright Field, Dayton, O.; Lt. Jim McMillen, Navy, Chicago; George Bartlett, Jr., Glenview naval air base; Henry Quendenfeld, army signal corps, Sacramento, Calif.; and Howard Strang, Ft. Sill, Okla.

Active members now serving with the Rescue squad include: Capt. Herman Holbek; 1st Lieut. Herman Rosling; 2nd Lieut. Walter Scott; Einar Petersen; R. F. Alther; Harry Greenlee; Fred Yates; Morris Dickus; Chas. Larson and L. E. Murrie.

Spencer Cotting, Richmond's Oldest Citizen, Dead at 100

Spencer Cotting, McHenry county's oldest citizen, died Sunday at his home in Richmond. Had he lived until April 23, 1943, he would have celebrated his 100th birthday. He was born in Bristol, Wis., in 1843.

He came to Richmond with his father when he was only a year old, and except for a short period when he resided in Elgin, his lifelong home had been in Richmond.

Cotting's father was one of the founders of Richmond, for he helped in plat the village, and also operated the Richmond mill, one of the first industries of that community. His mother lived to the age of 103 years.

Mr. Cotting kept a diary for more than 75 years in which he recorded daily events. One of the early entries is the notation about voting for Abraham Lincoln in 1864. He also recorded in the diary the great snow storms of 1878 and 1883 which he regarded as being the toughest in his lifetime.

Besides the widow, Mr. Cotting is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Cora Stewart, and a grandson, Charles Stewart. Funeral services were held Tuesday at the home in Richmond.

Annie Graham, 90, Dies at Long Lake

Requiem mass for Miss Annie Graham, 90, life-long resident of Long Lake, was sung at St. Bede's church Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock. Burial in St. Patrick's cemetery followed.

Miss Graham, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Graham, who came to the community from Ireland more than a century ago, died Saturday night.

She was the second of eight children, of whom Patrick and Jay Graham still reside at Long Lake.

Guernsey Is Sold to Millet

Peterborough, N. H.—P. H. Millet of Lake Bluff, Ill., recently purchased a registered Guernsey bull from Henry Herman of Antioch, Ill., to add to his local herd. Count Coral of Antioch (High 303304) is the name under which this animal is registered with the American Guernsey Cattle club.

News of the Boys in Service

Palaske Receives Silver Wings as Aerial Triggerman. A graduate this week of the Harlingen Army Gunnery School who qualified as an expert aerial triggerman after five weeks of intensive training and now wears the silver wings of a Gunner Sergeant is Otto P. Palaske, son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore M. Palaske of Antioch.

He was promoted to sergeant and received his diploma at brief exercises held at the school and, unless held over to serve as an instructor, will depart immediately to join a combat crew aboard a bomber.

Now as an official crew member of the Army Air Forces fighting combination, it will be his job to fight off enemy aircraft while other men in the bomber crew finish off the job of destroying enemy concentrations. To qualify as a top-notch man at flexible gunnery, he spent many hours in careful study and actual practice at aircraft identification, sight harmonization, machine gun nomenclature, and shooting every kind of weapon from BB to 50 caliber machine guns.

To The Antioch News and American Legion Post:

I wish to thank the News and the Legion Post for the present of money and the Antioch News which I appreciate very much.

It is interesting to read what the folks in town are doing.

I didn't realize how much the News was appreciated by all of the boys in the service.

Yours sincerely, Robt. Bemis, U.S.N.R.

WEDNESDAY WAS COLDEST DAY SO FAR THIS WINTER

Temperatures varying from 15 to 22 degrees below zero were reported for Antioch and surrounding territory Wednesday morning. The temperature on Tuesday morning was reported as hovering around 10 degrees below zero, although strong winds made it seem almost as cold as Wednesday. These were the coldest days recorded so far this winter.

The coldest day previously noted for January, according to Postmaster Roy L. Kufalk, official local weather observer, was Jan. 14, when the thermometer registered 4° below zero. Jan. 5 was next, with a 3° below reading. The warmest temperature recorded was 39° above zero, on Jan. 4.

January, 1942, showed a greater variation in temperature than January for this year, so far, with a cold spell dropping from 3 below to 20 below over an eight-day period from Jan. 3 to Jan. 10, inclusive. The warmest temperature recorded was 44 degrees above zero, on Jan. 23. The month, which opened with lightning and thunder on New Year's day, closed with a blizzard on Jan. 31.

Mrs. Lucy Undland spent last week in Woodstock visiting friends. Mrs. Undland makes her home with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Mount in Antioch.

Dairy Worker Is Injured at Farmers Milk Co.

Dale Rockow, an employee at the Farmers Milk company in Antioch, was taken to St. Therese hospital Wednesday afternoon following an accident in which he had caught his left hand in a bottling machine.

Dr. R. D. Williams was called and after giving first aid he summoned the Antioch Rescue squad to take the injured man to the hospital. The second finger of the hand was so badly injured that amputation of a part of the finger was indicated, physicians said.

U. S. O. Opens New Troops in Transit Center in Chicago

With the opening, Jan. 19th, of a USO Troops-in-Transit lounge at the Dearborn railroad station, West Polk and South Dearborn streets, Chicago becomes the only city in the United States to provide six terminal lounges for servicemen.

Beginning with the installation of a lounge in the Illinois Central station in April, 1942, USO Troops-in-Transit service, supervised by Travelers Aid, has marched through the months, setting up places of relaxation and aid for travel-weary men in uniform. In May, a room for servicemen in Union Station; in June, LaSalle street station; in July, Northwestern station; and in September, Grand Central station.

An average of 40,000 uniformed men and women frequent the lounges each month, making use of the free checking, letter writing, library and other facilities. Travelers Aid has trained 650 volunteers who are on duty from 8 a. m. to 11 p. m., 365 days a year, to help men on leave or furlough plan their recreation.

There are all kinds of every-day service the volunteers render—waking men up if they doze off and forget train time; playing a hand of gin rummy to pass the "waiting time"; and often just lending an ear while a lone-some serviceman talks about his girl back home.

Facilities are open to all members of the armed forces, to the merchant marine, indutees, families of servicemen, and to traveling nurses and women in uniform.

TAX-GOUGING IN WISCONSIN

A tax strike is being organized in Pleasant Prairie township across the line in Wisconsin, according to William H. Stuart's publication, "Heard and Seen."

How the Pleasant Prairie taxpayers are getting the augur is revealed by Stuart who reveals that a re-assessment written into the books by a representative of the State Tax Commission increases valuations of real estate 3 to 5. The township is said to be the biggest tax gouging municipality in America in the year just past.

The figures:

1941 Real Estate Valuation—$3,694,645

1942 Real Estate Valuation—$5,692,500

There was practically no new building in the township during the period, and the boost was nearly all at the expense of home owners. Farm acreage was decreased in many instances.

C. E. Hennings is confined to his home on account of illness.

Candidates Will File Petitions For Town Office

Wm. Rosing for Supervisor; Bob Webb for Road Commissioner

Retirement of two Antioch township officials, Supervisor Bernard F. Naber and Highway Commissioner Carl Barthel, both of whom will retire at the close of their present terms in April, has brought forth two aspirants to succeed them in these two important township offices.

For the supervisor post petitions are being circulated this week for William A. Rosing, senior partner in the firm of Rosing and Sons in the Antioch Garage, and seeking the highway commissioner job to succeed Barthel is Robert Webb, Lake county deputy sheriff who lives in Antioch.

Rosing, who served for two terms as the township's supervisor, a two year term in 1929-31 and a four year term 1931-35, knows his way around the county building in Waukegan where he acquired valuable experience during his tenure of office.

After having served as supervisor for several years, Naber relinquished the post in 1929, when Rosing defeated Frank H. Kennedy for the two year term. In 1935 Naber again became a candidate and defeated Rosing by 83 votes in the April election. He has held the office since that date.

Supervisor Naber suffered a severe illness during November and December and some weeks ago he declared he would not be a candidate at the forthcoming election.

Highway Commissioner Barthel is retiring after three successive terms of satisfactory service in keeping the township's roads in excellent condition. He has become an excellent road builder during his eleven years in the office. Barthel told a News representative today that pressure of his private business makes it impossible for him to spend the time necessary to take care of the township roads.

Rumors that other candidates will be in the race have been circulated, however, Town Clerk Charles Richards reports that no other petitions have been taken out to date. The first day for the filing of petitions is Feb. 5. The election will be held Tuesday, April 6.

Pork Production School To Resume Tuesday Eve.

The Antioch evening school for producers of pork was of necessity postponed last Tuesday evening, but will resume next Tuesday evening, Jan. 26.

The same lesson as was planned will be discussed—reducing losses at farrowing time and immediately after. The electric pig brooder will be demonstrated and a motion picture will be shown.

The meetings are held at 8 p. m. at the Antioch Township High school.

Dependent Children Receive $25,475.00

State aid for dependent children in Lake county for the month of December totaled $25,475, according to the report of Arthur C. Lueder, State Auditor of Public Accounts. There are 923 dependent children who were benefited through the state aid, the report stated.

The total in the state for this purpose was $826,579 and benefited 57,611 needy children.

POOR WEATHER CUTS ENTRIES IN DOUBLES SWEEPSTAKES TUES.

Although snow-choked roads kept entries down somewhat, some really good scores were chalked up in the mixed doubles sweepstakes rolled at the Antioch Recreation Tuesday night.

After the smoke cleared away scores showed that the Louis Meade-Betty Lou Bauer entry had carried off first honors with a 1261 series, coping not only first money, but also the $5.00 special prize offered by Manager Lou Bauer of the Recreation alleys. Meade had games of 257-212-237 for a terrific 706 series, actual wood; while his diminutive partner, 63-lb. Betty Lou Bauer, crashed the maples for a nice 384 series.

Fee Weiss and Louise Fernandez who lacked but 10 pins of the 1200 series necessary to carry off the special $3.00 award offered by Lou Bauer, were in second spot with 1190.

Ken Ashe and daughter, Beatrice, only 9 pins behind the 2nd place winners.

Some Will Die

A brief news item from a Western city reports an auto accident. The driver was burned to a crisp. In his car were found heat-sealed containers that had held gasoline. Before gas rationing these containers would not have been there; that man would not have died.

A five-gallon can of gasoline in the home, in the garage or in the back of a car can bring almost instant death to anyone in the vicinity. Gasoline does not merely burn. Its fumes in a confined space have the force of dynamite. They will explode without warning, the detonator often being an invisible spark incurred by static electricity.

As spring and summer approach, the temptation will be strong to "save" a little gas for a trip to the mountains or the seashore. A percentage of those who succumb to this temptation will meet a horrible death. In all probability there will be cases where entire homes are destroyed and members of families killed or maimed. They will have learned about gasoline—too late. But there are millions of others who will avoid tragedy by heeding the warnings of fire prevention experts; experts who have studied the dangers facing the gasoline hoarder. These experts have pointed out that no gasoline container is really leak-proof. A little water in the bottom is sufficient to rust through the best can. They also point out that gas fumes in a basement in which a furnace is operating are nothing less than a time bomb. Even pouring gas into the car tank may prove disastrous, for here again static electricity flashings from tank to funnel could result in instant oblivion.

These warnings have been issued in an endeavor to save lives and property. They are not appeals to patriotism. Good excuses by the gas hoarder might avoid the issue of patriotism. But no amount of rationalizing can avoid the prospect of death.

Strength of Democracy

Under a dictatorship, the cost of war can be shrugged off with printing press money. Under a democracy, the cost of war is second only in importance to winning the war. The cost of war can destroy democracy just as mercilessly as a military defeat. Sound money and a sound credit structure are the heart of a free society.

This war must be financed and won without undermining the nation's credit. Every citizen must realize that taxes and War Bonds are the only weapons that can win the war on the home front. During the coming year the government will spend 1.6 billion dollars every week. This means real hardship, because this vast outlay will not be used to create wealth. It will be blasted out of existence in the smoke of bombs and shell and in the wreckage of planes and ships.

In the months to come, thousands of banks will be pushing the sale of bonds as never before. The banker realizes the necessity of sound finance. He knows that the value of the money in his keeping and the individual freedom of the people who own that money are at stake. They are the strength of democracy. And he knows that by his efforts to sell War Bonds directly to the people he is doing his part to save both.

Match This Record

More than 28,000 physicians volunteered their services without pay to the Selective Service boards. More than 40,000 physicians gave up their careers in civilian practice to serve with the armed forces. The directing board of the Procurement and Assignment Service for Physicians, and its many representatives throughout the nation, serve without one cent of remuneration. The hundreds of physicians on the consultant committee of the Division of Medical Science of the National Research Council, and in the Office of Research and Development, contribute time and income without one cent of remuneration. Throughout the nation, thousands of doctors furnish countless services in connection with civilian defense, without one cent of remuneration. It would be interesting to know what other trade or profession can match this record of public service.

And yet proposals are made to throw American medicine into the political arena, and level it off to the standards prevailing in European countries where experiments in socialized medicine have utterly failed to produce the health records and benefits to the general public which are the rule rather than the exception in the United States. Fortunately for the people in this country, such efforts seem to have failed.

American medicine is marching ahead unselfishly and scientifically in its determination to maintain for our armed forces and the people at home the highest medical standards in the world—not for this year, or next year, but for every year.

Watchdogs of the Treasuries

Beginning the first of January with the Victory Tax, and the 15th of March with income taxes, millions of Americans will get over the idea that taxes are something that just "the other guy" has to pay.

This will be one of the best things that ever happened to the country. Millions of citizens who never took an interest in government before, will begin to watch the financial policies of government to see that public money is not wasted.

Boondoggling political schemes will be less popular as vote-getters.

Yesterdays

January, 1903

J. J. Morley was in Chicago Monday.

Frank Whitcomb of Waukegan visited his parents and other relatives this week.

Mrs. E. Hartle and Anna Ames, who have been visiting relatives and friends at Ft. Scott, Kansas, returned home Monday.

Jerome Burnett, who has been confined to the home for the past few weeks, is so much improved that he is able to be out a little at a time.

There will be a grand ball at the Antioch Opera House Friday evening, January 23, music will be furnished by Riechert's band of Chicago.

Frank P. Homan and John Sibley left the latter part of the week for Round Lake, where they will have charge of the ice crew during the ice harvest.

All members of Lotus Camp, M. W. A., are requested to attend the next regular meeting, Jan. 19, as the question of readjustment will be discussed and you are financially interested.

C. M. Confer, J. J. Burke and W. B. Drom went to Waukegan Tuesday as county delegates to the county convention of the court of honor camps. C. M. Confer had the honor of being elected a delegate to represent this county at the Annual State camp to be held at Springfield.

The Lake Side Rebekah club met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Norris Proctor last Friday evening, and officers were elected for the ensuing year as follows: Mrs. N. S. Burnett, president; Mrs. N. Pullen, vice president; Miss Mary Blair, secretary; Miss Sarah Ingalls, treasurer. The club donated $16.00 to the Old Folks and Orphans home. A very pleasant time was enjoyed by all. The next meeting is to be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dewitt Stanton, Friday evening, Jan. 23, let every member endeavor to be present.

A Surprise Party

Friday evening, January 9, a birthday surprise party was given Mrs. M. H. Farrier. The affair was marveled by Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Kelly and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Wells, which is a guarantee of success. The surprise was a genuine one. After a time spent in social conversation, five tables were placed and progressive circle was indulged in until about eleven o'clock when the scores were counted and it was announced that Mrs. Will Kelly and Mr. George Wells carried off the prizes. Then elegant refreshments were served. Several handsome tokens were brought and all departed for their homes at a late hour wishing Mrs. Farrier many happy returns of the day. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Kelly, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Wells, Mr. and Mrs. George Webb, Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Grice, Mr. and Mrs. Will Kelly, Mr. and Mrs. G. Thayer, Mr. and Mrs. Will Smart, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Filweber, Mr. and Mrs. K. K. Cass, Mr. and Mrs. George Brown, Mrs. Lillian King, Mrs. Carrie Hook, and Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Bammoas.

January, 1906

Mrs. James Wilton who was visiting at the home of Mrs. Ed Neff in Burlington last week while reading suddenly noticed that one eye seemed dim. She at once hastened to Chicago to consult a specialist who informed her that while the sight was not entirely destroyed that there was very little hope of saving it. The cause of the trouble was a hemorrhage. On Monday of this week she went to a hospital in Chicago where she will remain for a few weeks. Her many friends hope that she may derive much benefit from the treatment.

Mrs. E. Noylan left on Wednesday for Virginia, Minnesota, where she will visit her sister, Mrs. A. Stevens.

A car load of American field fencing just arrived at Williams Bros. Those who buy early will save money.

A surprise party was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dibble on Saturday evening of last week. The evening was spent in playing games, the most popular of which was progressive circle for the older folk, while the children played other games. At about eleven o'clock a beautiful luncheon was served. A late hour all departed for their homes. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. P. Dibble, Belter, M. Burke, F. Rhymer, J. Filweber, H. Horton, L. Soule, Mrs. Smith, Richard Hook, Mable Rhymer, Arthur Dibble, Bertha Burke, Helen Burke, Paul Smith, Lewis Burke, Jennie Sibley, Pearl Filweber, Sybil Filweber, Blanche Cornish, Will Horton, Eka Horton, Pearl Horton, Laura LaPar, Henry LaPar, Albert Horton, Willie Rhymer, Willie Belter, Harry Dibble, Sidney Dibble and Lauretta Horton.

January 18, 1904

Robert Trice of Chicago paid a short visit to Antioch friends last Saturday and Sunday.

Percy China has recovered from his recent illness and started to resume his studies at Evanston on Tuesday last.

The Revival at the Methodist church were continued during this week. Thus far they have been crowded with success.

Thomas Barnstable has been sick for a few days past. He was attacked by grippe and has not been able to be up since. He is improving at the present writing and if nothing unforeseen occurs, will be around again in a few days.

The ice men of last week were wearing a broad smile of satisfaction, have now hid the same away and their faces have assumed a doleful expression. The ice already harvested is not the best quality and the warm days of last week tend to make matters even worse than before.

Charles Ames intended to go to Chicago last week, but didn't.

Will Gray's building on Main street is pronounced an improvement to the street.

The fire in the big slew west of the village created some excitement, however, no damage was done, as the wind was light.

Note the improvement in the side walk leading to the depot and then "kick" against the incorporation.

During several nights of last week the calaboose was occupied by penniless travelers who preferred sleeping there to staying out all night.

Bessie

"All right, Bessie," said the boss of the little factory which was making jackknives for soldiers. "Did you want to see me about something?" The thin middle-aged woman stood up from the chair in the outer office and looked earnestly at the boss with her huge, gray eyes.

"It's about this ten percent pledge," she began. "Oh, that's all right, Bessie," the boss said. "I'd been meaning to speak to you about that. We don't expect you to pledge ten percent of your pay for War Bonds like the others are doing. We know you have a hard time making ends meet since Jake died. Eleven kids, isn't it? That's quite a lot of mouths to feed. Let's see, you make $25.50 a week including overtime, don't you?"

"Yes, sir, but..." The boss smiled. "Don't give it another thought, Bessie. You've got your hands full now. Uncle Sam knows you haven't got a penny to spare. Don't let it worry you. We understand."

The boss turned to go back into his private office. "But what I wanted to say was..." Bessie raised her voice and the boss looked around. "I wanted to say, would a dollar a week be too little? You see, after we get the living expenses paid, there's just about a dollar a week left. Would they be willing to accept a dollar a week?"

"They'd be more than willing," the boss said quietly. "They'd be proud."

Bessie looked relieved. "All we have to do is scrimp a little," she said. "I'd feel just terrible if we couldn't give something."

Back in the boss's office a representative of the Treasury Department was waiting. The boss shut the door and sat down. "I've just seen the greatest single sacrifice I know of," the boss said. "Listen, if you want to hear what American women are made of..."

War Traffic Now Crossing!

If you wanted to drive across a river and found the bridge already crowded with Army trucks, tanks and guns, you'd cheerfully give them the right of way.

Long Distance telephone lines are bridges of speech, connecting your city with other sections of the land. Today these lines are crowded with military and war production calls.

It's impossible to enlarge the telephone system enough to handle all the increased volume of calls. The materials required for new construction are even more urgently needed for war production. So we must make the most efficient use of what we have—with the help of every telephone user.

Here are three simple ways in which you can help keep the messages of war moving:

1. Make only the most essential Long Distance calls to Washington, D. C., and other centers of war activity.
2. Keep ALL your telephone conversations as brief as you can.
3. When possible, give the number of the distant telephone you are calling.

JESUS THE BREAD OF LIFE

LESSON TEXT—John 6:8-14, 30-33.
GOLDEN TEXT—Jesus said unto them, I am the bread of life.—John 6:35.

Spiritual truth becomes understandable to us as it is put in the language of our daily life. Jesus was the Master Teacher of all times, and made use of graphic figures to present the message of salvation.

He spoke of the wind, of water, and in this lesson of bread. Even a child knows about such things and understands the good news. Bread is still the staff of life. It speaks of life and health, of satisfaction and strength.

Beginning with the five small barley cakes (and two fishes) which a provident little boy had taken with him into the wilderness, Jesus preaches by miracle and by precept of eternal things. One is glad that a bright lad was more thoughtful than all the adults that day, for he provided the occasion for the miracle and the message.

I. Daily Bread (vv. 8-13).

The great multitude had followed Jesus to the other side of Galilee where He had gone to rest. They sought Him out and He had compassion on them—these sheep without a shepherd (Matt. 9:36). That interest was first spiritual, for "he began to teach them many things," but it was also practical in the realm of daily life, for He saw that they were physically hungry.

His appeal to Philip revealed the lack of faith which at times afflicted the disciples. They knew they had the Son of God in their midst, and yet they were bound by the matter of dollars and cents, of portions and—well, they just wished Jesus would send these people away. That would solve the problem. Oh, yes, "there is a lad here," but what he has amounts to nothing.

All this was perfectly natural. They talked just like most of us do when we are up against a similar problem. But the point is that they (and we too) ought to realize that "little is much when God is in it."

If we let Christ have all that we have and are, it will be adequate for every need.

Are you worrying about your lack of money; your inability to do things for Him? Are you limiting God when He would like to take what you have and multiply it by His blessing?

Notice that though there was plenty, there was none to waste. What was over was gathered up. God never encourages waste. Perhaps we in America may learn that lesson the hard way in these days—but having learned it let us not forget it.

II. Heavenly Bread (vv. 14, 30, 31).

The people (probably incited by the religious leaders) after their first surprise at the miracle, sought Him out in the temple and demanded a greater miracle. Jesus never put much dependence on those whose faith rested on miracles, and we do well to be careful of those who must have something spectacular going on all the time if they are to be interested.

They contrasted His miracle of one meal with the repeated miracle of the daily manna—the bread from heaven—under Moses. Jesus makes it clear that He is not in competition with Moses, for the manna came not from Moses but from God. Those who seek signs and wonders had better get their eyes off such things and get them on God who is the Giver of every good and perfect gift.

Their plea for heavenly bread gave Jesus the opportunity to tell them about the true bread from heaven.

III. The Bread of Life (vv. 32-35). Feeding the body is important, but the real need of men is for spiritual food. Daily bread is a food that perisheth (see v. 27), but the "meat that endureth unto eternal life" is received by faith in Christ (v. 29).

Instead of a sign, or the passing blessing of daily sustenance, Jesus presents Himself as the bread of life which will eternally satisfy the deepest hunger and thirst of the human soul.

Those who teach that Christ is but our example, giving Himself as the spiritual bread to those who by development of character are seeking to be like Him, should read verses 47 to 51 of this same chapter. Here He makes clear that by the giving of His flesh in the death of the cross, everlasting life comes to the believer.

It is only the man who eats of this bread, who by faith makes himself partaker of the death of our Lord, that can have eternal life. This must be done in the right way—the way of faith. The people said, "Lord, evermore give us this bread" (v. 34). One wonders whether some of them did not say it selfishly, and others perhaps still with the thought of daily bread for their bodies. Among them, however, were surely some earnest souls who that day saw the light of eternity through His wonderful words about the bread of life.

In Which Billygoat

Is Given an Assist

TAMPA, FLA.—The ration board now expects most anything when motorists come in to explain their gasoline-quota books. But they didn't expect this one: "I was out feeding my goats, and the book slipped out of my pocket. Before I could grab it, a Billygoat ate it."

Rather Annoying These Likenesses

They Bring Double Trouble To Pair of Dentists.

CHICAGO.—There are two young men in Chicago who should meet each other—in front of a mirror. Neither knows the other, but they are so nearly identical in appearance that they are indistinguishable.

They learned of each other as a result of a toothache that belonged to Roger Hutchison, a merchandiser. Hutchison was sitting in his dentist's waiting room when another dentist paused in front of him.

"Do you want the keys?" the dentist asked. Hutchison looked up at him blankly. "No," he said. The dentist stared for a moment and then with a shrug went into his office.

Hutchison soon got to thinking more about the question than the tooth. He tossed aside the magazine he'd been trying to read and walked over to the "Inquiring" dentist's office. He stuck his head through the doorway and blurted: "What keys do you mean?"

The dentist turned impatiently and replied: "Why, the keys to the office. Don't you want to go to work?" "I can't figure out what you're talking about," Hutchison said. "I've come here to have a tooth filled."

A few minutes later Hutchison related the incident to his own dentist. The dentist nodded knowingly and called a nurse. "Who is this?" he asked, pointing at Hutchison. The nurse, bewildered, replied: "Why, you know Dr. Johnson as well as I do!"

While working over Hutchison's tooth, the dentist explained. A few days previously Dr. Merton Johnson, a physician who sometimes works in another office of the suite, had entered the office of Hutchison's dentist. "How's that tooth?" the dentist asked him. "Tooth?" said Dr. Johnson. "What tooth?"

The dentist was a little irritated. "The tooth I've been treating for you, of course."

Dr. Johnson looked closely at his associate. "My teeth are sound," he said, "and I think you should get more sleep."

Adventurous Youth Sees

Service on Egypt Front

SCHENECTADY, N. Y.—Adventure might well be the middle name of Harold Hennessy Jr. In 1937, at the age of 17, and while still a high school student, he crossed the Gulf of Mexico in an 18-foot canoe with two Seminole Indians. A year later he sailed the same craft to the West Indies with a fellow student. Now, he's with the American field service in the middle of the Egyptian battle against Nazi Marshal Erwin Rommel. Harold messaged home that he'd escaped when Tobruk fell, but that he was confident Rommel would be halted. He enlisted with the American field service three days before America declared war on Japan and sailed for Cairo last February.

How This Cow Got in

Well Still Is Mystery

CROMWELL, CONN.—Ding-dong bell: Bossy was in the well, but who put her in was not half so deep a mystery as how the feat was accomplished.

Superintendent Joseph Broman of the Swedish Orphanage, found the cow struggling in 12 feet of water at the well bottom. The cow was hoisted up with a chain and rope sling, but the opening in a heavy iron cover atop the well was so small she could not be squeezed through it. A tractor which pulled away the cover solved that problem, but not the mystery of how the critter got down there in the first place.

Oversized Bread Tin

Costs Baker $25 Fine

DALLAS, TEXAS.—Sam Weinstein, baker, blames the war for his $25 fine for selling loaves of bread that were too large.

State law prescribes 16-ounce loaves; one of Weinstein's weighed 19 1/4 ounces.

He said his baking pans were too large—and he can't get priorities to buy smaller ones.

Wartime Medical Supplies

Electricity

To meet the wartime demand for vast quantities of medical supplies, electricity is on the job every hour of the day. It runs the machines that control temperature and humidity in pharmaceutical laboratories... the machines that extract medical ingredients... the machines that sterilize containers... the machines that automatically package medical preparations.

Electricity gives life to these and hundreds of other machines that speed the preparation of medical supplies for America's soldiers, sailors and marines.

This electrically operated machine sterilizes ampoules which will carry injection preparations to our Medical Corps.

After the ampoules are filled the heads are heated to a pliable state and carefully sealed to insure sterility.

Under electric light the ampoules are subjected to rigid inspection before being shipped to America's field hospitals.

"Life" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, January 17.

The Golden Text was, "The gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord" (Romans 6:23). Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "And Moses called all Israel, and said unto them, Hear, O Israel, the statutes and judgments which I speak in your ears this day, that ye may learn them, and keep, and do them. That your days may be multiplied, and the days of your children, in the land which the Lord swore unto your fathers to give them, as the days of heaven upon the earth" (Deut. 5:1, Deut. 11:21).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "The understanding that Life is God, Spirit, lengthens our days by strengthening our trust in the deathless reality of Life, its almightiness and immortality. This faith relies upon an understood Principle. This Principle makes whole the diseased, and brings out the enduring and harmonious phases of things" (P. 487, 488).

METHODIST CHURCH

Antioch, Illinois

Considerable interest is manifest in preparation for our Week of Dedication, beginning Sunday, February 28, and closing Sunday, March 7. Thirty-four have signed the "Personal Covenant" to pray daily for the blessing of God of this effort for enrichment of the spiritual life of the entire church. All services of this period of preparation will be conducted in harmony with the central purpose, Last Sunday the sermon emphasized two vital elements in "Personal Dedication": formal declaration and prayer. Formal declaration is primarily an intellectual vow to God and man of the willingness and purpose of the heart. Prayer is contact with the Divine in quest of power to perform the purpose of the heart. Each Sunday a five-minute Lay Address will precede the sermon. As Lay Leader of this Church, Mr. S. E. Pollock spoke last Sunday calling attention that every member can pray for the Week of Dedication; every member can tell others about the week of Dedication. Every member who is not disabled or must work can attend the special services during the Week of Dedication. Every member who has an income can make a sacrifice on Sunday, March 7. Next Sunday a representative of The Woman's Society for Christian Service will give the Lay Address. We invite you to worship with us at 11:00 a. m.

THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Contributed by the Bahai Group

THE GOAL OF A NEW WORLD ORDER

In the preceding articles of "The Goal of a New World Order" series, the author, Shoghi Effendi guided the reader through a profound and comprehensive analysis of world conditions, their cause and consequences. He also pointed out that the plan revealed by Baha'ullah for a new civilization could not as yet be comprehended by mankind in its entirety. He can, himself, but call this stupendous New World Order to our earnest attention and consideration as the most hopeful means of solving our present-day difficulties and saving our tottering civilization from the brink of that utter destruction foreseen by many of the world's leading statesmen.

The Guiding Principles of World Order

"All we can reasonably venture to attempt is to strive to obtain a glimpse of the first streaks of the promised Dawn that must, in the fullness of time, chase away the gloom that has encircled humanity. All we can do is to point out, in their broadest outlines, what appear to be the guiding principles underlying the World Order of Baha'ullah, as amplified and enunciated by 'Abdu'l-Baha, the Center of His Covenant with all mankind and the appointed Interpreter and Expounder of His Word."

"That the unrest and suffering afflicting the mass of mankind are in no small measure the direct consequence of the World War are attributable to the un wisdom and short-sightedness of the framers of the Peace Treaties only a biased mind can refuse to admit. That the financial obligations contracted in the course of the war, as well as the imposition of a staggering burden of reparations upon the vanquished, have, to a very great extent, been responsible for the maldistribution and consequent shortage of the world's monetary gold supply, which in turn has, to a very great measure, accentuated the phenomenal fall in prices and thereby relentlessly increased the burdens of impoverished countries, no impartial mind would question. That inter-governmental debts have imposed a severe strain on the masses of the people in Europe, have upset the equilibrium of national budgets, have crippled national industries, and led to an increase in the number of the unemployed, is no less apparent to an unprejudiced observer. That the spirit of vindictiveness, of suspicion, of fear and rivalry, engendered by the war, and which the provisions of the Peace Treaties have served to perpetuate and foster, has led to an enormous increase of national competitive armaments, involving enormous expenditures, which in turn has accentuated the effects of the world-wide depression, is a truth that even the most superficial observer will readily admit. That a narrow and brutal nationalism, which the post-war theory of self-determination has served to reinforce, has been chiefly responsible for the policy of tariff and prohibitive trade tariffs, so injurious to the healthy flow of international trade and to the mechanism of international finance, is a fact which few would venture to dispute."

It would be idle, however, to contend that the war, with all the losses it involved, the passions it aroused and the grievances it left behind, has solely been responsible for the unprecedented confusion into which almost every section of the civilized world is plunged at present. Is it not a fact—and this is the central idea I desire to emphasize—that the fundamental cause of this world unrest is attributable, not so much to the consequences of what must sooner or later come to be regarded as a transitory dislocation in the affairs of a continually changing world, but rather to the failure of those into whose hands the immediate destinies of peoples and nations have been committed, to adjust their system of economic and political institutions to the imperative

WAR BOND

Sophia

Mrs. Kimball and Mrs. Worthington, dressed soberly and wearing their best black gloves, walked along the stony country road back toward Sophia Hardy's farm, to pay their visit of condolence.

"How do you reckon she'll be bearing up?" Mrs. Kimball asked Mrs. Worthington. Both ladies wore their most solemn, funereal expressions.

"A mighty severe blow," Mrs. Worthington said. "Mighty severe. To lose your only son, the mainstay of your declining years. And such a dreadful death, too, to go down with a ship. Mercy!"

"The first of our boys from Hand County to go, too," Mrs. Kimball said, mournfully.

"I wouldn't blame Sophia Hardy for feeling right bitter."

They stood on the simple stone doorstep, with downcast eyes, getting themselves into the proper commiserative mood.

"Come in!"

The voice was brisk and cordial. They looked up in surprise. Sophia herself had come to the door. As they followed her into the parlor they exchanged glances, with eyebrows lifted. Sophia was not even in mourning. The parlor shades were not even drawn.

"It's nice of you to come," Sophia said. "Do sit down."

"We came," Mrs. Kimball said almost reprovingly, "to tell you that our hearts are bleeding for you in your great loss."

"We know how lonely you must be out here," Mrs. Worthington said. "With nothing to take your mind off of."

"Oh, I keep busy," Sophia said. "I've just finished applying for the Government insurance on Tom's life."

The visiting ladies could not resist a shocked glance at one another.

"I want to get it right away," Sophia said. "So I can put it into War Bonds. My boy hasn't finished fighting yet, not by a long shot."

The ladies were so occupied with feeling horrified, so titillated by this curious behavior in a bereaved mother—that neither of them noticed Sophia's hands. Under the folds of her clean print dress, against the seat of her chair, they were tightly clenched.

(Story from an actual report in the files of the Treasury Department.)

Carry on for mothers like Sophia. Buy War Bonds (all it hurts).

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

The Navy is making a plea to civilians to turn in their binoculars for military use during the War. The Army and Navy both need binoculars for navigation and scouting purposes. Depending on the power of the lenses, they cost from $50 to $80 each.

If you have a set of 6 x 30 up to 7 x 50-power lens binoculars loan them to the Army or Navy. If not, your purchase of War Bonds and Stamps will help buy this equipment for our fighting forces. needs of a rapidly evolving age? Are not these intermittent crises that convulse present-day society due primarily to the lamentable inability of the world's recognized leaders to read aright the signs of the times, to rid themselves once and for all of their preconceived ideas and fettering creeds, and to reshape the machinery of their respective governments according to those standards that the implicit in Baha'ullah's supreme declaration of the Oneness of Mankind—the chief and distinguishing feature of the Faith He proclaimed? For the principle of the Oneness of Mankind, the cornerstone of Baha'ullah's world-embracing dominion, implies nothing more or less than the enforcement of His plan for the unification of the world—the plan to which we have already referred. "In every Dispensation," writes 'Abdu'l-Baha, "the light of Divine Guidance has been focussed upon the central theme. . . . In this wondrous Revelation, the foundation of the Faith of God and the distinguishing feature of His Law is the consciousness of the Oneness of Mankind."

They Go to School In Grandma's Bus

Woman Starts 23rd Year of Transporting Children.

JEFFERSON, OHIO. — Although women cab drivers are not legal in Ohio, a 55-year-old grandmother has been skipping a school bus for 22 years.

Mrs. Millie May Hodge of New Lyme road has never been involved in an accident while transporting children to or from school.

She drives the New Lyme township school bus and has now started her 23rd year with the opening of school.

In the meantime, she has found time to raise and mother a family of five children. The three daughters and two sons are all married and the always-popular woman bus driver is the happy grandmother of nine grandchildren.

Three of the grandchildren now ride in "granny's" bus.

In the neighborhood where Mrs. Hodge and her also-constructing husband reside she is known simply as "Millie Accommodation." Her neighbors say that she is willing at all times to help a neighbor.

On top of her jobs as wife, mother, grandmother and bus driver, she takes an active interest in school affairs and was recently re-elected to her second term as president of the local Parent-Teachers association.

Her record as a driver is marred by one mishap with an empty bus—not her fault. A skidding truck smashed into her bus, causing her injuries that kept her bedfast for five weeks. Her first thought was gratefulness that no children were aboard the vehicle.

She says that she tries to act as a "second mother" to bus loads of school children, which shouldn't be hard for Mrs. Hodge, considering the size of her own family and grand-family.

1,100 Norway Ministers Are Held in Their Homes

LONDON.—The Quisling regime has confined more than 1,100 clergymen of the official Norwegian church to their residences and replaced members of parish councils with Quisling followers, official Norwegian sources here declared.

They said the move was "the boldest attempt yet to take over all church property."

The priests were said to have declined to recognize the Quisling regime as the official government and held to that stand for weeks despite threats.

Norwegian circles here said that "in an effort to keep the churches open, Quisling is ordaining hundreds of unqualified laymen to fill the pulpits of 750 churches."

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

Refrigerators are out for the duration. Manufacturers have now toolled their plants for production of war materials. Common-sense folk, however, are saving now, not spending, and building up a fund for purchase of refrigerators and other domestic needs through investment in U. S. War Bonds.

Your Money put into War Bonds today will bring you back $4 for $3 at maturity. So start saving for those domestic needs when you will be permitted to buy them. Join the Payroll Savings Plan at your office or factory and let's all "Top that Ken Forcel." U. S. Treasury Department

OUR DEMOCRACY—by Mat

Science In The News

By ORSON D. MUNN, L.H.B., L.L.B., Sc.D.
Editor, Scientific American

Old age, the bugbear of all mankind is being firmly shoved back for 585,000 "young fellows" over 65, who this year have refused tempting Social Security pensions because they want to remain at work.

Global warfare makes these oldsters an important factor in our war industry, but to keep on the job, they've got to have what it takes. The science of geriatrics (old-age study) has recently discovered many interesting and pertinent facts about "good health" in old age, and these new recommendations didn't come a minute too soon for the grandpas and grandmas who want to take a whack at the Axis from behind the production lines.

One of the interesting disclosures of the new old-age studies is that gray hair, decaying teeth, touchy stomachs and wrinkled skins may well be indications of vitamin deficiency. These same symptoms, it seems, appear in young people who have existed on vitamin and mineral-deficient diets over a period of years. Another reversal of popular belief is the statement of these geriatricians that old people need more nourishment, not less, than their sons and daughters. Impaired absorption in the intestines makes it essential for them to have a larger variety of the vital nutrients than young folk. If digestive systems have slowed up, or there is a loss of appetite, oldsters should supplement their regular meals with vitamins and minerals, these scientists say.

Insomnia, another bothersome symptom of old age can be helped by a high vitamin intake. Utilization of the important minerals, calcium and phosphorus is aided by plenty of vitamin D. More iron intake is another "must" for good health in later life.

Naturally, vitamins won't entirely stop the inevitable progress of aging, but it has been shown by actual experiments that they will improve many conditions old people once believed had to be endured. The advance of Father Time is often marked by chronic illnesses such as trouble with heart and blood vessels, constipation, weak and aching muscles, skin rashes and even mental ills. A group of 40 British oldsters who recently played guinea pig to science furnished conclusive evidence that some of these physical ills are due to vitamin starvation. Daily doses of vitamins B and C brought about improvement in muscles, circulatory troubles and upset minds. Constipation and skin irritations cleared up.

Lack of the B-complex vitamins lessens the liver's store of an energy-giving chemical, called glycogen. And this means fatigue and inability to work.

Another experiment, at Columbia University, proved that vitamins A and B were essential to a hale and hearty later life. A batch of rats in the nutrition laboratories there were fed two to four times the normal amounts of those vitamins and calcium. The enriched diet added man's equivalent of seven years to their lives, and those well-fed rats had vim and vigor long after their less fortunate brethren had endured a miserable dotage and died.

Of course, the best insurance for a lively old age is an adequate diet from birth, but for the nine million persons in the United States now, who are over 65—and the much larger number over 50—it's a little late to worry over past mistakes. There is still time, however, thanks to the rapid advance of nutrition knowledge, to repair those vitamin-deficiency fences. Minimum daily requirements of vitamins and minerals for good health have been set by the government. Concentrates, containing all the six essential vitamins and the important minerals—phosphorus, calcium and iron, have opened up a new health world for older people. Dependency and armchair lives after 60 are no longer inevitable.

Mom

"Sausages for breakfast! Sausages for breakfast! I can smell 'em!" Small Joe came tumbling downstairs fastening the belt of his shorts as he came. He made a bee-line for the kitchen. Pop was already sitting at the table, reading the paper, while Mom held the handle of the frying-pan over the stove. Small Joe came close and sniffed the delicious smoke, wriggling all over with early-morning joy.

"Better be thankful for them while you can still get them." One glance at Mom's face told Small Joe this was one of her tight-lipped days. "Not a drop of coffee in the house, and no sugar left to put in it if there was. Some war!" Small Joe kept still.

"Letter for you, son," Pop said in his quiet voice. Small Joe made a leap for his place at table. There it was, a private personal letter for him alone, propped against his milk glass.

"Hey, Pop! It's from brother!" Small Joe was pulling the envelope apart and diving into the contents.

"Hey, look what he sent me." He passed over an oblong of thick, crinkly paper while he leaned over the sheet of writing-paper.

"A twenty-five dollar War Bond," Pop said slowly. Mom turned and looked at it over Pop's shoulder, with the frying-pan in her hand.

"Listen what he says. 'How are you doing, kid? Hurry and grow up so you can help me slap the Japs. Aren't you most big enough to get into the Army? Here's something for you in your name. Let's the whole family gang up and help to win this war.'"

Pop and Mom were silent. But small Joe didn't notice that. He was full of his letter and his War Bond.

"Gee, Pop, in six years I could get into the Army, couldn't I, Pop? Gee, Pop, I want to be a soldier like brother and fight in this war. Gee, isn't that bond nifty? Look, it was issued in Honolulu. It's mine."

But Pop was looking at Mom and Mom was looking at Pop. There were tears in Mom's eyes. She shook her head sharply. Pop reached out and patted her hand gently.

"Well, can't let our soldier boy beat us to buying War Bonds, can we, old lady?" was all he said.

She shook her head again. "I guess if he can give up his job and go off to war I can do some fighting back at home," she said in a queer voice. Small Joe looked up at her in surprise. She saw him looking at her and spoke sharply. "Well, Joe, we're about ready to eat. Say Grace."

Small Joe folded his hands and bent his head as he had been taught.

"Oh Lord, we thank thee for this food and all thy bountiful gifts..."

"Amen," Pop said.

"Amen," Mom said. "Now eat your good sausages."

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Corn Ceiling Aids Livestock Producers; 51 Billion Tax Bill Will Help Nation Meet War Budget and Defeat Inflation; U. S.-Britain Relinquish China Rights

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Building "Pee" roads in New Guinea is all part of the day's work for American army engineers. This particular road under construction near Port Moresby, main Allied base in New Guinea, is so steep that the men must hold on to ropes to keep from falling backward. The grade drops about 65 degrees behind them.

HIGHLIGHTS . . . in the week's news

LONDON: Fresh eggs, as priceless as thick sirloin steaks, returned to the ordinary British consumer's diet on at least a token basis, it was announced officially here. Ordinary consumers were scheduled to get one fresh egg a month. Priority classes, including nursing mothers, invalids and infants will get a dozen a month. Powdered egg rations remained a dozen a person a month.

CORN CEILINGS: Spur Meat Production

Although Food Administrator Claude Wickard had been steadily urging farmers to increase meat, dairy, poultry and egg production to meet war demands, the price of corn had been rising to a point where farmers found it more profitable to sell than to use the grain to feed cattle, hogs and chickens.

Moving to stabilize corn prices, the OPA under instructions from Stabilization Director James F. Byrnes imposed a ceiling at January 8th to 12th prices for 60 days, promising permanent ceilings later. Declaring that these ceiling prices were in excess of 100 per cent of parity when taking into consideration AAA benefit payments, officials said the ceilings would establish price relationships at which farmers would find it profitable to feed, thus preventing shortages of vitally needed foods.

As observers had expected, the government action produced repercussions. Livestock feeders were pleased, since grain prices were stabilized; corn growers, whose profit incentive for maintaining record production was reduced, expressed displeasure.

CHINESE FREEDOM: Real but Deferred

China was too busy fighting Japs to take time off to celebrate the treaty by which Great Britain and the United States abolished extraterritorial rights. But this action meant that once the Japs were ousted, China would enjoy real and unqualified freedom for the first time in a century.

The agreements, subject to favorable U. S. senate action will do away with political, military, commercial and judicial preferences under which Britain and America held jurisdiction over their own shipping in Chinese ports, their own special law courts in Shanghai, their international settlements and their right to maintain troops in China.

Months, and perhaps years remained to complete the readjustments, but the march for Chinese freedom had begun.

NAVAL LOSSES: U. S. Lists Names

"Reasons of military security" no longer made secrecy necessary, so the navy announced the names of 11 warships previously reported as lost in three battles of the Solomons. The list included the 20,000-ton aircraft carrier Hornet and two of the nation's fastest and newest light cruisers, the Juneau and Atlanta and the heavy cruiser Northampton.

Likewise reported as sunk were seven destroyers, the Cushing, Preston, Benham, Walke, Monssen, Lafayette and Barton.

Commanders of five of the ships were listed as missing, while the skippers of the other six, including Rear Adm. Charles P. Mason of the Hornet were reported safe. Greatest losses were in the epic battle off Guadalcanal in November when all seven destroyers and both light cruisers were sunk. In this battle 28 Jap ships were destroyed.

NORTH AFRICA: Mud Enemy No. 1

Mud and recurrent tropical rains had continued to make anything but an actively virilious front in the Tunisian North Africa front. While optimistic estimates predicted better weather by early February, other forecasts lengthened the rainy season until March.

But a four-way threat to the narrowing African coastal region still in Axis hands was steadily developing as Allied aircraft attacked German and Italian bases over a 600-mile area.

From Tunisia a French column was reported to have cut across into Tripolitania some 300 miles below Tripoli. Another French column from the Lake Chad area was moving north. On the east the British eighth army under Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery was pressing the remnants of Marshal Rommel's forces, while in Tunisia the American, British and French forces were preparing for the time when the weather would permit them to take the offensive against Bizerte and Tunis, remaining Axis strongholds on the African Mediterranean coast.

SO. WESTERN PACIFIC: New Guinea Struggle

The Japs were determined to give up their remaining footholds in New Guinea only at the same stubborn cost at which they had yielded the Gona-Buna area. It had taken nearly four months to wipe out the Jap beachhead in this sector. Still in Japanese hands were Sarnananda, Lae, Salamaua and Madang. Closest to was Sarnananda and here a three-pronged Allied drive had hemmed in the last survivors and cut off all hope of reinforcement.

The subjugation of remaining Lae, Salamaua and Madang presented another story. Their successful assault meant overcoming the same complex problems of supply that impeded and delayed the offensive against the Japanese at Buna and Gona. And until these New Guinea positions were wiped out, the United Nations would be unable to launch any offensive to extend Allied control on to New Britain.

Guadalcanal

In the Solomons, reinforced American troops were reported moving against only spasmodic Jap resistance. While the Americans had been able to land additional forces to augment their units on Guadalcanal, reports persisted that the Japs had been able also to strengthen their positions.

Observers believed that if U. S. army units in force had reinforced and relieved the marine garrisons on Guadalcanal, the next step would be a concentrated move to push American occupation further to the north in the Solomons with the ultimate goal of completely ejecting the Japs.

RECIPROCAL TRADE: Hull Girds for Fight

Tennessee-bred Secretary of State Cordell Hull who never backs away from a fight prepared to wage a vigorous battle to preserve his reciprocal trade agreements from the onslaughts of opposing congressmen.

Although the presidential authority over reciprocal trade agreements does not expire until June, a bill to terminate them already had been introduced by Representative Harold Knutson of Minnesota and referred to the house ways and means committee.

CORDELL HULL.
... Fights for treaties.

In addition to considering this proposal to terminate the agreements now in effect between this country and 25 others, the committee also will have to pass on legislation to extend the President's authority to make such agreements. Congressional observers believe the extension proposal will be bitterly fought by certain groups. Strongly championing the measures will be Secretary Hull, who was their original sponsor.

WOMEN WAR WORKERS: 6,000,000 by 1944

More than 30 per cent of the nation's war production workers will be women by the end of 1943 and a proportionately larger number will be employed in essential civilian trades and services, it was predicted by Paul V. McNutt, chairman of the War Manpower commission.

Mr. McNutt estimated that 4,000,000 of the present 17,000,000 war workers are women and forecast 6,000,000 by the end of 1943.

Army's Purchasing System

The army's purchasing system will be further centralized by transferring procurement of many supply items formerly obtained by the army air forces, the medical department, and the corps of engineers to the quartermaster corps. This procedure will simplify procurement methods, facilitate purchase control in instances where War Production Board limitation orders affect the supply of raw materials and manufactured articles, and have the advantages attendant to mass buying.

Culture in the Clubs

Edna St. Vincent Millay was lecturing and reading her poetry to a fashionable woman's club in an American city. At the end of her talk she said to the audience: "Now, if there is any particular poem of mine you like, I will read it to you." There came a painful silence. Finally, from the rear of the hall came a timid small voice: "Oh, won't you please read 'Cargo'?" To which Miss Millay replied: "I'm sorry, but I didn't bring John Massfield's poems with me."

What to Do

By PHYLIS DELMONT

All of us should buy as many war bonds and stamps as we can afford. A clever gift whether it be for a birthday, shower, anniversary or week-end present to your hostess, is a few war stamps pasted in the attractive books the government provides. Anyone would be glad to get such a gift—and what a very nice wedding present a war bond would make!

Many girls have asked their escorts to forego corsages and send them "victory bouquets" instead. These are defense stamps wrapped in cellophane and fashioned into flowers to wear in the hair or on a dress. They are attractive and certainly are valuable long after flowers have wilted. What a nice remembrance to have of a dance-date with your favorite service man!

AMERICA IN ACTION

LANDING OPERATIONS

Since Pacific warfare tends to develop into a battle for islands, landing operations are taking an important place in the plans of naval strategists.

Marine methods in landing operations may not be fully disclosed for reasons of military security, but general tactics usually employed by the navy and the Leathernecks are no secret to the enemy by now.

A modern landing operation requires split-second co-operation between air, sea and landing forces. The area to be invaded is studied minutely and thorough plans are laid long before the date set for things to pop. That date is kept a close secret, since surprise is an important element in the success of the venture.

In the air the operation may involve the use of reconnaissance and fighter planes, bombers, troop-carrying gliders, parachute troop transports and planes equipped to lay smoke screens.

Naval forces probably include transports, battleships, aircraft carriers, light and heavy cruisers, destroyers, submarines, mine sweepers and supply ships.

At the appointed moment bomber and fighter planes attack from overhead. The big naval vessels, lying several miles out to sea cut loose with everything they've got. Marines already have been dispatched in their rubber landing boats in cover of darkness, and are on their way to the shore line.

Shell after shell from the naval guns screeches over the heads of the inbound marines to blast the enemy back from the beach defenses, smashing at his artillery and communications lines.

The landing boats zig-zag toward shore at full speed, perhaps covered by a smoke screen. Marines return enemy fire from machine guns perched in the bow of each boat. Near the beach marines pile over the sides and splash through the surf toward the enemy positions.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

Save now to buy later, after the War. That's good common sense because if you spend now, you help to drive prices up for everything you buy. Durable goods are scarce so invest in War Bonds today and do that house remodeling when Victory is won.

If you have not done so, join a Payroll Savings Plan at your office or factory. If you are not investing at least ten percent in War Bonds, increase your regular deductions on your Payroll Savings Plan. Let's "Top that ten percent!"

War Stamp Sales Over Half Billion Dollars, Album Drive Opens

Appealing Margaret C. Russell of the War Savings Staff picks up this new Treasury poster which will be seen from coast to coast. It pictures retailers' slogan, "SAY YES." A drive is underway for Americans to buy additional War Stamps to fill albums and convert them into War Bonds.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The nation's retailers from the tiniest homelots to the mighty cities are acting as a spearhead in a great Treasury Department campaign to sell the additional War Savings Stamps needed to fill more than 100,000,000 albums now in the hands of the American people.

According to a report released by the Treasury Department today, sales of War Savings Stamps totaled $559,777,000 for the period from May 1, 1941, through November, 1942.

Stamp sales have risen from less than three million dollars per month when they were first introduced to the public to an average of more than fifty million dollars per month at the present time.

The Treasury's slogan, "A half-filled album is like a half-equipped soldier," has been adopted officially by retailers for the campaign.

The importance of the drive is seen in the fact that a War Bond potential of nearly two billion dollars hangs in the balance.

Every War Stamp album, converted into a People's Bond, for which the purchaser pays $18.75 and which matures to $25.00 value when held for 10 years, adds its force to the war effort.

The Treasury Department is counting upon the country's school children to play a powerful role in the success of the SAY YES drive. The volume of stamp and bond sales is at the rate of $200,000,000 for the current school year.

The purchase of War Bonds and Stamps is the all-important link between us at home and our heroes overseas. Captain Colin Kelly's plane and Lieutenant Ruckelshaus's P-40 were manufactured and bought by Uncle Sam. The guns and tanks with which we will conquer is our responsibility. We must buy them! Joseph C. Grew Warns

Half-Effort Will Not Defeat Japan

By JOSEPH C. GREW

United States Ambassador to Japan until the outbreak of war, and author of "Report From Tokyo."

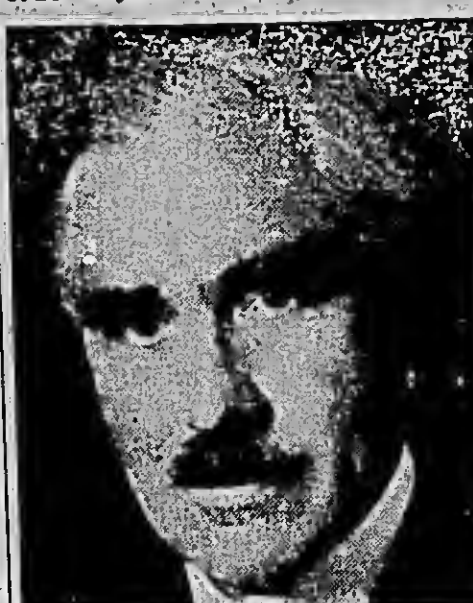

(Written for the Treasury Department in connection with the Retailers' "SAY YES" campaign to complete the nation's 100,000,000 partially filled War Stamp albums.)

WASHINGTON, D. C.—In describing one of the big air battles over Guadalcanal a recent newspaper account tells of an American flyer who parachuted from his crippled plane to the waters of Lunga Bay. The Navy craft which picked him up next went to the rescue of a Japanese pilot seen struggling in the water nearby. As the rescue boat reached the Japanese flyer he suddenly pulled out his revolver, aimed it at the drenched American pilot and pulled the trigger. The cartridge failed to explode. Then the Japanese officer turned the gun on himself with suicidal intent. Again he pulled the trigger and again his revolver failed him. At this point an American sailor knocked him out with a boat hook and pulled him aboard the American craft a prisoner.

Almost daily one reads eye-witness stories such as this one, and all of them clearly demonstrate that war with our enemy in the Pacific cannot end in compromise.

For ten years I lived in Japan. The truth as I know it from close observation is this: Nothing less than the exertion of our maximum capacities, individually and collectively, in a war of offense will bring our beloved country safely to the longed-for haven of victorious peace.

The Japanese are pawns of a senseless but mighty militarism—a warrior caste which is ruthless and cruel beyond comprehension.

JOSEPH C. GREW

Says It's Fight to Finish

From the flood of eye witness accounts of atrocity and bestiality one fact shines clear. We must utterly crush that machine and caste and system. If, however, we Americans think that collectively and individually we can continue to lead our normal lives, leaving the spirit of self-sacrifice to our soldiers and sailors, we shall unquestionably run the risk of a stalemate with Japan. I do not have the slightest doubt of our eventual victory. But I do not wish to see the period of our blood, sweat and tears indefinitely and unnecessarily prolonged. We must not fail to realize that we are up against a powerful fighting machine, a people whose morale cannot be broken even by successive defeats and untold economic hardship, a people who gladly sacrifice their lives for their Emperor and their nation. We must also remember that Japan did not start this war without carefully laid military plans for victory over the United States and a peace dictated by their war lords at the White House.

This is a total war, the only answer to which is a total American victory. It is a war in which measures of any kind mean incredible waste of material, energy and human life. In this sense a half-filled War Savings Stamp album symbolizes a half effort. There are I am told, roughly 100 million partially completed War Stamp albums now in circulation. These uncompleted Stamp albums are, in a measure, like a 100 million threats to speedy and victorious peace. On the other hand, for every War Savings album completed and cashed for a Bond, you the owner have helped some soldier or sailor take forward step on the uphill road to total victory.

It Takes Both, War Bonds and Taxes, to Win—Victory Tax Special Direct Levy Asked to Help Meet Heavy War Costs

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Approximately 50,000,000 American workers began to make an added contribution to the War cost this month in the form of a 5% Victory tax.

For many millions of Americans the Victory tax and the 1943 income tax are the first direct levies to be made by the Government to meet the staggering War costs. And it will take both taxes and War bonds . . . to provide the supplies and materials to win the War and the peace afterwards.

The Treasury Department estimates that the Victory tax will raise approximately $2,000,000,000. Every person receiving more than $12 per week must pay the Victory tax upon that part of his income over and above the $12. For example, a married man with a salary of $50 per week, with two dependents, would make only a net payment of $1.08 per week after allowance for post-war credit.

The Government has made every effort to make the impact of the new tax as light as possible. The law, in effect, provides that in the case of married persons whose sole income is from wages or salary, 40 percent of the Victory tax paid (up to a maximum of $1,000) plus 2 percent for each dependent (up to a maximum of $100) may be used as a credit against whatever Federal income taxes the individual may owe at the end of the year—provided he has purchased certain War Bonds, or paid old debts or paid life insurance premiums equal to the amount of this credit. In the case of single persons this credit will be 25 percent of the Victory tax paid (up to a maximum of $500). Should the Victory tax credit exceed the individual's Federal income tax, the unused portion of the credit may be refundable to the taxpayer.

Even with the Victory tax, the 1943 income tax, and all other taxes paid by individuals, the average American will have more money with which to buy War Bonds than he has ever had before. Here are the statistics which explain that statement:

In 1940 the total income payments made to the American people amounted to about 76 billion dollars. In that same year the total personal taxes paid, Federal, State and local, were roughly 2.5 billion dollars, leaving 73.5 billion dollars of disposable income. During 1943 income payments are expected to rise to 125 billion dollars and personal taxes under existing revenue legislation will be 15 billion dollars—leaving 110 billion dollars of income at our disposal as against only 73.5 billion dollars in 1940.

In 1943 Mr. Average American still be carrying a much lighter load than his Canadian or English brothers-in-arms. In Great Britain total national and local taxes by individuals at present amount to 31 percent of the national income. In Canada, total individual income to 25 percent of the national income. In the United States, personal taxes, Federal, State and local, will amount in 1943 to 18 percent of national income. Our allies invest an additional 11 percent of national income in War savings. We Americans, to match the record of our nation neighbors, would have invested this year 20 percent of our national income in War savings. match the English record we have to invest 23 percent of national income in War savings.

Our Freedom Is Priceless

By JOSEPH E. DAVIES
Former Ambassador to Russia and Belgium.

(Written for the Treasury Department in connection with the "SAY YES" campaign to complete the nation's 100,000,000 partially filled War Stamp album.)

What I myself saw in my four years in Europe gave me a new realization of the priceless rights which we here enjoy.

No secret police can in the night whisk us away, never again to be seen by those we love.

None of us can be deprived by any party, state or tyrant of those precious civil liberties which our laws and our courts guarantee.

None of us can be persecuted for practicing the faith which we found at our mother's knee.

None of us can be persecuted, tortured or killed because of the fact that an accident of fate might have made us of the same race as the Nazarene.

No American can be placed by any party or government in a regimented vise which takes from him or her either freedom of economic opportunity or political religious liberty.

What would the millions of unfortunate men, women and children in Europe give to be able to live and enjoy such a way of life?

Well, in this war, those are the things in our lives which are in jeopardy. Our boys are dying to preserve them for us.

Then we can do no less than to "say yes" and fill those war stamp albums. It is our duty and privilege to help the secretary of the treasury, Mr. Morgenthau, in his magnificent effort to do the tremendous job of getting the money to keep our boys supplied with the weapons with which to fight our fight.

Surely that is little enough for us to do on the home front.

U. S. Treasury Department

Savages Friendly To Survivors of Torpedoed Ship

41 Men From Lost Vessel Get Warm Welcome From Natives in Africa.

NEW YORK. — Forty-one survivors of a medium-sized United States merchant ship, torpedoed and sunk in the Indian ocean several months ago, reached the African coast after seven days in an open boat, only to be confronted by naked savages armed with big knives. Fortunately the savages turned out to be friendly and helped the seamen make their way back to civilization.

This was revealed by some of the survivors who had reached an East coast port. The sinking of the ship was officially announced recently by the navy department in Washington. Fourteen men, 12 members of the crew of the merchant ship, and two of the ten-man naval gun crew, are missing and presumed dead.

Two Torpedoes Hit. Capt. W. W. Kuhne of 460 Oakland avenue, West New Brighton, S. I., said that the ship was "sunk" by two torpedoes, which he believed were fired from a motor torpedo boat. While his crew and the naval gunners were abandoning ship, he said, one lifeboat was upset. The loss of life occurred among the men who were in it.

All 41 survivors crowded into one of the three remaining lifeboats, abandoning the two others. Captain Kuhne reported that they suffered severely from hunger and thirst during the week before they reached land. When shore was sighted a heavy surf was running and he feared the crowded lifeboat might not make the beach.

"But we started in and then about 20 natives came on the beach to watch us land," he told the Associated Press. "They had big knives hanging from belts. The belts were the only clothing they wore."

Really Worried. "We were really worried but we decided to test them to see if they were friendly. As soon as we were close enough we tossed a rope, they rushed up and helped us beach the boat, and we knew they were our friends."

Captain Kuhne said that the natives fed the hungry men, taught them to catch crabs, and bartered bananas and chickens for their possessions. Two matches were traded for four bananas, and a life preserver brought four chickens. The natives were glad to take United States coins but were skeptical about dollar bills.

The Africans helped the shipwrecked men to travel on foot and by boat to a town, from which they returned to the United States by ship and airplane.

Dream Causes Reunion of Sisters Apart 40 Years

ST. LOUIS. — A dream has united two sisters who had not seen or heard from each other since 1902, when they parted in Copenhagen, Denmark.

In the dream, Mrs. Rhenhilda Brawshaw of Teaneck, N. J., said she visualized the name of her sister, Mrs. Emelie Kasch, in the St. Louis telephone book.

She obtained a copy of the directory, found the address of an Albert Kasch and wrote him a letter, explaining her desire to find her sister, who had married an Albert Kasch in Denmark before departing for the United States 40 years ago. Mrs. Brawshaw came to this country two years later.

The Albert Kasch listed in the telephone book proved to be Mrs. Brawshaw's sister's son, and the letter brought the two women together here for a reunion.

"It was like a new life to see her again," said Mrs. Kasch. "I had given her up for dead."

After talking to Arthur for 45 minutes on a long distance call Ellen agreed to accept the ring which he wanted to send the next day. But she wants to wait until after the war to be married.

She says she thinks it's all right to get engaged by telephone, but she positively won't get married on the telephone.
